Dear colleagues, dear friends,

After Porto, our new destination is Luxembourg, where the next UIA Annual Congress will be held.

This beautiful city, which has attractions that will appeal to everyone, is ideally located in the heartland of the European institutions. The main themes of our Congress, which are resolutely focused on the future, as well as what lies ahead for lawyers and the legal profession, reflect our passion and our commitment to the practice of law.

“Innovation and the Law: Where Passion Meets Reason” and “Doing Business in Respect of Human Rights” are the overarching themes. Through these themes, we wish to project our vision for the future of the legal profession.

This 2019 Congress is being organised with the kind assistance and continuous involvement of Luxembourg lawyers. The Luxembourg Committee will be delighted to show you how charming the city is. The opening ceremony will take place at the Philharmonie and the gala dinner at the MUDAM, both of which symbolise the city’s cultural wealth.

The in-depth technical work that is planned for our Congress will be fully compatible with the social activities for all attendees and accompanying persons, in the best tradition of UIA hospitality, which is built on participatory conviviality, sharing, integration, cultural and professional diversity, and is the core fabric of our organisation.

I look forward to seeing many of you in Luxembourg so that this Congress is made a success by your participation and by everything that we achieve together over the course of the event.

Issouf BAADHIO
UIA President
Past President of the Burkina Faso Bar

It is a great honour for me to have been appointed as the President of the UIA’s 63rd Annual Congress. The Grand Duchy of Luxembourg is a unique location for holding such an event and we will make every effort to provide the best possible welcome for the congress attendees, who will be travelling from countries all around the world.

The beauty and the particularities of Luxembourg are widely known and recognised beyond its borders. The Fortifications and the Old Quarters of the City of Luxembourg have been listed as UNESCO world heritage sites since 1994. We will be delighted to show you Luxembourg, which is rapidly changing, modern, multicultural, cosmopolitan and welcoming, while remaining true to its values and roots.

We are very honoured that His Royal Highness, the Grand Duke of Luxembourg, has granted us his High Patronage for this 63rd Congress. The opening ceremony will take place in one of the most renowned European musical venues, the highly prestigious Philharmonie. The gala dinner will be held at the Musée d’Art Moderne Grand-Duc Jean (MUDAM), a magnificent modern art museum designed by the world-famous architect I. M. Pei. The Rockhal concert hall, which is located on the former site of the Esch-Belval steelworks, which has been completely rehabilitated in order to make way for a new, innovative city, will be the venue for an exciting evening that has many surprises in store for you.

The main themes, the first of which is “Innovation and the Law: Where Passion Meets Reason”, are resolutely forward-looking. This theme will examine both the influence of innovation on the law and reciprocally, the need for the law to regulate innovation in certain cases, in various high-tech sectors.

The second theme concerns fundamental rights and businesses. On June 16, 2011, the United Nations Human Rights Council (UNHRC) adopted the Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights. These are guidelines for the UN Member States and private businesses for the fulfilment of their legal obligations, as part of the implementation of the UN’s “Protect, Respect and Remedy” framework. Two special sessions on “European Law and Institutions” and “Violence against Women” are also scheduled.

We would like the scientific work to be widely available to lawyers, but also to other legal professionals, students, and European and global institutions, while involving representatives of both national and international businesses.

We look forward to seeing many of you at a Congress that we trust will be unforgettable!

François PRUM
President of the Congress
Immediate Past President of the Luxembourg Bar

ENTRY FORMALITIES

Nationals of EU Member States and Swiss nationals do not need a visa for stays of less than three months. However, they must be in possession of a valid National Identity Card or Passport.

Passport holders from countries other than EU Member States or Switzerland should consult the Ministry of Foreign Affairs website, which lists the countries whose citizens do not require a visa for short stays. If, on the contrary, you are a citizen of a country that is subject to the visa obligation, please contact the Luxembourg embassy or consulate in your country of residence in order to obtain a visa: maee.gouvernement.lu

We strongly advise those who require a visa to proceed with their visa application as early as possible (see page 52).

TRANSPORT

Direct flights serve Luxembourg airport on several airlines. You can benefit from attractive rates if you book your flight online as early as possible.

You may contact our partner agency Destination Plus for further information regarding flights, and to organise your flights for groups of more than 10 people:

DESTINATION PLUS

ACCOMMODATION

Description of the selected hotels can be found on pages 44, 45 and 46. You can book your accommodation online via our partner agency Destination Plus: www.destinationplus-uia.com

Due to high demand, hotels are filling up very quickly in Luxembourg. Considering the limited number of rooms and the fact that preferential rates cannot be guaranteed for more than the number of rooms reserved by the UIA, we recommend that you make your hotel reservation as early as possible!

TRANSFERS

The UIA will not provide shuttle services from the airport or from the train station. Luxembourg-Findel international airport is located 8 km from the ECCL. It takes around 15-20 minutes to go from the airport to the ECCL by taxi depending on traffic conditions. The train station is located in the city centre, 15 minutes away from the ECCL. Luxembourg has also a good public transport system including buses, trains and tramway.

TOURIST ACTIVITIES

The Destination Plus agency offers an itinerary that will permit you to discover Luxembourg and its surroundings during the Congress. The tourist activities can be found on pages 48 and 49 of the programme. The Destination Plus reservation form is enclosed to enable you to proceed with your booking. Main Theme 1 / Innovation and the Law: Where Passion Meets Reason

The third industrial revolution will aim to create a resilient, robust economy for the future through a fully interconnected ecosystem that includes smart transport, renewable energies and new information technologies. Innovation at national, regional, European and global level (in North-South relations), in particular in the banking, insurance, telecommunications, space resources, artificial intelligence and robotics sectors are in the process of revolutionising our thought patterns and the law.

Introduction: Pierre GRAMEGNA, Minister of Finance of Luxembourg Moderator: Silvestre TANDEAU DE MARSAC (FTMS Avocats) Paris, France 	9.00 am - 10.00 am / Panel 1: Innovation in Financial Services An opening session introduced by the Finance Minister, Pierre Gramegna, will be devoted to innovations in the fields of banking and finance: it will cover the exponential growth of FinTech companies, blockchain, artificial intelligence and crypto assets. A panel of leading experts made up of regulators, lawyers, service providers and FinTech company incubators will answer the following questions: what major changes to the finance professions will these innovations bring about? What are the risks and opportunities generated by these innovations? How can they be regulated without hindering their development, while at the same time protecting users? Speakers: Nasir ZUBAIRI (LHOFT - Luxembourg House of Financial Technology) Luxembourg Réda BOUAKEL, CEO, Fortia Financial Solutions, Paris, France Jonathan PRINCE, Co-Founder, Finologie, Luxembourg Sébastien RASPILLER, Chef de service du financement de l'économie à la direction générale du Trésor au ministère de l'économie et des finances, Paris, France Nadia MANZARI, Partner - Schiltz & Schiltz S.A. (Former Director of the Innovations, payments, markets infrastructures and governance Department of the Commission de Surveillance du Secteur Financier - CSSF) Luxembourg
   Moderators: Jean-Pierre BUYLE (Former President of the Brussels Bar, President of the French- and German-speaking Bar Association of Belgium) Brussels, Belgium Alex SCHMITT (Bonn & Schmitt) Luxembourg	10.00 am - 11.00 am / Panel 2: Innovation in Legal Services The legal services market is undergoing wholesale change in terms of how law is practised and the habits of the profession, in response to the emergence of Legal Tech companies. The market for Legal Tech companies has become mature enough for them to provide comprehensive solutions, in particular concerning law firm management, contract and document automation (smart contracts), and secure document storage. Legal Tech solutions make it possible to facilitate the work of lawyers and to assist them in their engagements, in making decisions, in analysing clauses and in drafting documents, and in the operational management of their business or their digital identity. Specific attention will be paid to predictive justice. A panel of publishers and also of innovative service providers, such as LexisNexis and Wolters Kluwer, will explain how this innovation is going to revolutionise the world of law. Speakers: Dan KOHN, Foresight and Innovation Director, Secib, Paris, France Jean-Dominique QUINET (Pixelixir) Luxembourg Vincent HENDERSON, Head of Legal Analytics Global Product Development, Wolters Kluwer Legal & Regulatory, Paris, France Ian McDUGALL, Executive Vice President and General Counsel, LexisNexis, New York, NY, United States
 Moderator: André PRÜM (University of Luxembourg) Luxembourg	11.20 am - 12.30 pm / Panel 3: Innovation and Space Law A Chinese lunar mission has landed a probe on the far side of the moon. A Japanese spacecraft has successfully landed on the asteroid Ryugu. Elon Musk, Richard Branson and Jeff Bezos are some of the billionaires who are actively working on space exploration missions in various forms. In parallel, on July 20, 2017 Luxembourg passed a law on the exploration and utilisation of space resources, thus following the example of the USA concerning the potential commercialisation of space resources. There appears to be a major shift towards the exploration of space and the utilisation of space resources being financed by private investors, rather than primarily by governments, which was the case until now. Whether in Silicon Valley or Luxembourg (following the enactment of said law in 2017), start-ups with a focus on technologies that can be used in space are emerging at any increasing rate. What are the reasons for such a renewed interest in space exploration? How are private businesses able to enter fields that were previously reserved for major State budgets? At the same time, the use of space as a commercial zone is not new. Many civil satellite operators are already present in space, in the same way as SES, a Luxembourg company. These operators are also moving forward with their technologies. Satellites are becoming smaller and more efficient, and efforts are being made to keep them operational in space for longer. This allows for better terrestrial communication, and improved observation of natural or meteorological phenomena on Earth. The international texts that govern space are not keeping pace with the growth of space-related activity. Most of them were adopted in the sixties, at the time of the cold war and the race to see who would be first to land on the moon, rather than who would be the first to be able to utilise the resources of space. The panel will discuss how space law regulates or should regulate these new activities in space in the future. The panel will examine the question of determining which international or national framework should be used for this activity and what the real timeframes are that some of these activities will need in order to set up a fully-fledged commercial activity. Speakers: Marco FERRAZZANI, Legal Counsel and Head of the Legal Services department, European Space Agency - ESA, Paris, France Marc SERRES, CEO, Luxembourg Space Agency - LSA, Luxembourg John PURVIS, General Counsel, SES, Luxembourg Prof. Jean-Louis SCHILTZ, Senior Partner - Schiltz & Schiltz S.A., Professeur honoraire, Luxembourg Laurent SCHUMMER (Arendt & Medernach) Luxembourg

Main Theme 2 / Business and Human Rights

Session Chair: Marc BICHLER, Ambassador-at-Large for Human Rights, Luxembourg	9.00 am - 9.15 am / Introduction We will emphasise the importance of having a multilateral, collective approach, in order to advance a cause as wide-reaching as that of the protection and the advocacy of human rights. Indeed, a single stakeholder – whether in the public or private sector – however powerful it may be, cannot hope to make a difference in this area. In view of this, international law has to play a fundamental role in protecting individuals against abuses and breaches of their human rights by their fellow human beings, States or other public or private entities. The legal professions – and that of lawyer first and foremost – have a responsibility to support these efforts to ensure greater respect for human rights. 9.15 am - 10.00 am / Panel 1: General presentation of the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights: States' Obligations - Corporations' Liabilities - Remedies Keynote speech : Dante PESCE, member of the United Nations Working Group, Chile In his speech, Mr. Pesce will trace the path that, in 2011, led to the unanimous adoption of the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights by the Member States of the United Nations Human Rights Council. He will explain the advantages and the disadvantages of an approach based on voluntary participation by corporations in the implementation of these guidelines, and will describe the obligations States are under in this context, as well as corporations' liability in the event of the breach of human rights in their organisation and throughout their economic value chain.
 Moderator: Marc BICHLER, Ambassador-at-Large for Human Rights, Luxembourg	10.00 am - 11.15 am / Panel 2: Respect for Human Rights, a Source of Liability and Opportunities for Businesses Speakers: Olivier DE SCHUTTER, Professor of international law at the University of Louvain, Member of the UN Committee on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights, Belgium Monica SCATASTA, Head of Environment, Climate and Social Policy, European Investment Bank (EIB), Luxembourg Valérie ARNOLD, Partner & Corporate Responsibility Leader PwC, Luxembourg Başak BAĞLAYAN, postdoctoral researcher at the University of Luxembourg, Turkey Dario SOTO ABRIL, CEO Fairtrade International, Colombia A panel of experts, law professors and conciliators will discuss concrete cases of breaches of human rights by corporations, in particular in light of the experiences reported by civil society stakeholders. A clear message has been sent to institutional or private investors to ensure that they are aware of their potential liability if they contribute to the financing of economic and commercial activities that cause human rights violations. Academic analysis and research can help to determine the level of this risk, to assess its consequences and to identify possible remedies. It is in the interest of corporations that find themselves exposed to such risks to surround themselves with well-informed advisors in order to manage the risks and prevent all future human rights violations.
Moderator: Marc GALLARDO (RSM) Barcelona, Spain	11.20 am - 12.30 pm / Panel 3: Corporate Responsibility for Data Protection Speakers: Viviane REDING, a Member of the Luxembourg Parliament and former Vice President of the European Commission, Luxembourg Thomas VON DANWITZ, Judge at the Court of Justice of the European Union (CJEU), Luxembourg Herwig HOFMANN, Professor of European and Transnational Public Law at the University of Luxembourg, a lawyer who represented Max Schrems at the CJEU, Luxembourg Max SCHREMS, Chairman NOYB, Vienna, Austria The protection of personal data is one of the fundamental rights that affects all companies across the board and all freelancers in both the public and private sectors. The penalties handed down by the European regulators now give the internet giants serious food for thought. In January 2019, the CNIL (French Data Protection Agency) issued Google with a record fine of €50 million for breaches of the legislation on personal data protection. This shows corporations what is now expected of them in terms of data protection. This session will be an opportunity to review key ECJ case-law, which were extensively commented in the specialised press. There will be a lecture by special guest Viviane Reding, a former Vice-President of the European Commission and Commissioner for Justice, Fundamental Rights and Citizenship, who will review the key aspects of the European personal data protection reform that she herself initiated. The second speaker will be Thomas von Danwitz, a Judge at the European Court of Justice who specialises in data protection. A presentation will then follow by the activist Max Schrems and his lawyer, Professor Herwig C.H. Hofmann, who will look back on the cases they pleaded before the European Court of Justice in Schrems v Facebook and on their fight against the largest online companies, in particular Facebook.

Special Session on European Law and Institutions

Coordinator: Jean BRUCHER (Brucher Thieltgen & Partners) Luxembourg Questions/answers and final observations Moderators: Martin André DITTMER (Gorissen Federspiel) Copenhagen, Denmark Astrid ABLASSER-NEUHUBER (BPV Hügel Rechtsanwälte GmbH) Vienna, Austria Aleksander STAWICKI (WKB Wierciski Kwiecinski Baehr) Warsaw, Poland	The controls exercised by the European Institutions in the field of competition law 1 / The powers exercised by the European Commission in the field of competition law, in particular in the area of mergers and acquisitions Speaker: Theofanis CHRISTOFOROU, Principal Legal Adviser – European Commission Competition Team The powers of the Commission in the area of EU competition law are extensive. They range from the power to collect information and carry out inspections to prohibit anticompetitive agreements and abusive conduct by dominant undertakings, block anticompetitive mergers, accept commitments and remedies, order divestitures, take interim measures and impose fines. It cooperates with national competition authorities and courts. Its decisions are immediately enforceable but appeals to the EU Courts in Luxembourg are possible to review the legality of the decisions and the imposed fines and other corrective remedies. The overall objective of these powers is to protect the proper functioning of the internal market, competitors and consumers. They are addressed to all undertakings (private, public or privileged undertakings), irrespective of where they are located or established if their conduct is implemented or have anticompetitive effects in the EU. The breadth of these powers will be illustrated by reference to some leading cases, such as Microsoft, Intel, Google, MasterCard, Lundbeck, Coty, DEI, Deutsche Boerse/NYSE Euronext, and Siemens/Alstom. 2 / The case-law of the Court of Justice of the European Union in the area of mergers and acquisitions Speaker: José Luís DA CRUZ VILAÇA, former President of the General Court, former Advocate-General and former President of Chamber at the Court of Justice The wide margin of discretion recognized to the European Commission for the enforcement of the EU competition rules must be balanced with an effective judicial review by the EU courts going beyond the mere compliance with procedural requirements. The big challenge for the judge is then to turn sound economic principles and theories into solid legal criteria, capable of adjusting to complex realities (in particular those characterising the digital age) and at the same time ensuring legal certainty and predictability to individuals and undertakings. These propositions will be illustrated by reference to the case law of the ECJ regarding, on the one hand, the enforcement of Article 102 TFEU (ex- Articles 86 EEC and 82 EC), from Hoffman La Roche to Intel, and, on the other hand, the application of the merger control regulation, in particular the notion of collective dominant position (see Air Tours/First Choice).

International Bar Leaders' Senate

President of the Senate: Issouf BAADHIO, UIA President, Past President of the Burkina Faso Bar (Cabinet Baadhio), Ouagadougou, Burkina Faso 1st Vice-President of the Senate: Robert BOURNS, Past President of the Law Society of England and Wales (TLT LLP) London, United Kingdom 2nd Vice-President of the Senate: Sonia GUMPERT MELGOSA, Past President of the Ilustre Colegio de Abogados de Madrid (Monereo Meyer Abogados) Madrid, Spain 3rd Vice-President of the Senate: Joachim BILE-AKA, Past President of the Côte d'Ivoire Bar (Bile-Aka, Brizoua-Bi & Associés) Abidjan, Côte d'Ivoire	Artificial Intelligence (AI) The development and use of Technology/ AI in practice is altering the way in which we work. The World Bank predict that AI will remove 75 million jobs by 2022 and that these will include some legal work. It predicts the creation of 133 million new jobs over the same period. Edmund Munk, CEO of the Learning Performance Institute suggests that "the future is still about people. Automation will come, but humans still need to interpret data and create new solutions". Professor Dillenbourg of the centre for Digital Education at the Ecole Polytechnique Federal de Lausanne says "Prosperity of organisations will be based on the ability of their people to decompose complex problems into simpler ones". Bar Associations have opportunities to use technology to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● promote access to justice, ● promote the value and integrity of professional standards (which remain constant, notwithstanding changes to the way we work), ● equip their members with the knowledge and skills required to promote their careers. We will promote a discussion with contributions from Bar leaders and those engaged in the development of AI, with case studies on how Bars are responding to the opportunity of AI.

■ Hemicycle	Main Theme 1 Innovation and the Law: Where Passion Meets Reason
Human Rights ■ Room D	The New Challenges in Protecting Fundamental Freedoms and Human Rights As defenders of human rights and protectors of fundamental freedoms, lawyers face nowadays new challenges that they need to overcome in order to fulfil their mission effectively. In this respect, we will focus on the current challenges concerning mainly: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● The prevention of torture, inhuman treatment and arbitrary proceedings in criminal cases, ● The legal support to victims of domestic violence and violence on social media, ● The protection against human rights violations in the workplace. We will then determine the best and most efficient practices to deal with such challenges and talk about the evolving role of lawyers in upholding human rights and fundamental freedoms.
International Arbitration ■ Room E	EU Law and Arbitration The session will deal address the interface between European law and arbitration. Although arbitration is excluded from the scope of the Brussels Convention, the relationship between European law and arbitration is a matter of increasing complexity. The related issues will be explored by two panels. The first panel, focused on commercial arbitration, will examine topics such as antisuit injunctions and the application of EU mandatory provisions. The second panel, devoted to investment arbitration, will discuss matters of current interest in this area, including the new investment dispute resolution system chosen by Europe, the enforcement of intra EU awards and investor-state dispute settlement reform.
Fashion Law ■ Briefing FR 	The Impact for the Fashion Industry of Recent EU Legal Changes EU has recently passed several Regulations and Directives that have had a direct-impact on the fashion industry. E.g. Geo-blocking regulation had a direct impact on e-commerce, GDPR on e-garments or, amongst others, the enforcement directive has unified the IP enforcement regime all over the EU. These changes has also changed the way lawyers have to advise their clients.
International Criminal Defence ■ Briefing DE	Session in cooperation with the International Criminal Court Bar Association (ICCBA) with the participation of ASF Belgium The Defence before the International Criminal Court – Challenges in Practice The Mandate and Role of the ICCBA and an Update on Proceedings at the ICC
Labour Law ■ Briefing UK	The Gender Diversity and other Non-Discrimination Solutions What are the gender discrimination issues and other discrimination issues that arise during the employment cycle? How can we change our approach to diversity (and non-discrimination in general) in a way that effectively achieves gender diversity and non-discrimination? What legal solutions are being implemented in our jurisdictions ((i) non-discriminatory job advertisements; (ii) protection against harassment; (iii) employer's obligations to provide reasonable accommodations; (iv) dismissal during pregnancy; (v) equal pay for work of equal value; (vi) religion freedom, etc.); How labour inspection can detect and tackle discrimination at work?
11.00 am - 12.30 pm ■ Retirement and Pensions ■ Briefing PT	Round table open to everyone on the topic “What Pension (s) for Lawyers?” Pension plans for lawyers often differ from one country to another. However, generally speaking, lawyers in each country have managed to build a system that meets their needs and is therefore specific to them. It is this specificity which is now reaching its limits and being called into question in many countries. After various presentations that illustrate the extent and the strength of this diversity, a comprehensive debate is needed at the UIA Congress in Luxembourg. The aim? Show how important it is for lawyers to retain control over their social protection and the choices they have made concerning their retirement. Ultimately, a congressional motion that reflects lawyers' attachment to a pension plan for their country would once again be an expression of the profession's independence.

Where Bricks Meet Bytes. What Is PropTech About?

In the latest years, the word PropTech has very much been in everybody's mouth. Real estate, as a market and as a practice has traditionally been very resilient to technological innovation except when dealing with new construction techniques and solutions. Now the focus is shifting from "bricks" to "bytes" and there seems to be a worldwide trend that goes beyond construction, seems to attain both development and investment markets in many ways and from many angles, this including the use of technology to automate various processes, from asset management to facility management.

Lawyers cannot escape from PropTech and this is why we propose that you join our session, where we will try to have keynote speakers from the sector illustrate us on what PropTech is about and favour a discussion on how this can impact our work.

The Right of Silence

The right of silence - the right of the accused to refuse to answer questions before or during trial - has a long history. Supporters of the right regard it as protecting the presumption of innocence whereas its critics see it as a refuge for the guilty.

What do we mean by the right of silence today? Is it still used and does it offer the same level of protection, including in multi-jurisdictional investigations? A number of jurisdictions have found ways in which to erode this right, whether by adverse inference or by the compulsion of information, with criminal sanction for refusal to comply.

Protection of Know-How and Trade Secrets – What the Business Lawyer Needs to Know

Business lawyers are often asked to draft or review non-disclosure agreements (NDAs). This session will provide an update on latest developments regarding the protection of trade secrets from both civil and common law perspectives. We will explore the practical implications of the new EU directive on the protection of trade secrets. We will consider the "reasonable steps" necessary to confer the protection of trade secrecy upon your client's know-how and information, including NDAs. We will focus on typical clauses in NDAs, their respective pros and cons, and how to enforce a NDA. Our speakers will share their long-time practical experience in this area of law with you. You will be invited to actively participate in our discussion.

Applicable Law in International Commercial Transactions

Governing law is one of the first concerns in international commercial transactions, and its choice – or the failure to make a proper choice – might turn out to be a major risk when drafting a contract. The issues which are to be taken into account for the choice of law when drafting a transnational agreement are anything but self-evident. The complications increase where a transaction includes or might include not only contractual obligations but also non-contractual risks. Where, how and to what extent can a properly made choice of law mitigate the risks linked to the uncertainties surrounding the law applicable to a transaction or a chain of interrelated operations and obligations? This will be one of the central issues of this joint session. Choice of law walks also hand in hand with choice of jurisdiction, one of the major risks being in this respect to have a court applying a domestic law which is not its own. The application of foreign mandatory provisions might also prove to be a nonnegligible risk factor. On the basis of very pragmatic case studies presented by experts of international sales, international contracts and transport operations, our private international law reflections will handle those crucial points with a particular reference to the current trends and principles set forth on this subject by national and international Courts, with the aim to provide a platform for exchange of experiences among all participants.

Foreign Investment

Briefing FR

New Vehicles for Foreign Investment: what are the current best jurisdictions, regarding regulatory issues, tax economy and other advantages, to place corporate structures for foreign investment?

We are in Luxembourg, in the heart of Europe and very close to Switzerland, Liechtenstein, the Netherlands ... jurisdictions that were traditionally related to holding structures for foreign investment aiming at better secrecy, tax saving and avoiding liabilities. Those jurisdictions were also object of recent controversy, international pressure and even scandals. Because of that, and also due to changes in the international and national legislations, those corporate structures changed a lot (compromising their efficiency in many aspects). What is their current status? What are the advantages and risks currently present in their structures? What are the best jurisdictions? A session with the support of the Tax Law Commission.

Brexit – the Never Ending Story

The decision of the UK to leave the EU, expected to be put into effect in 2019, will be one of this year's major events affecting Europe. Despite the detailed agreements that have been negotiated, there remain many uncertainties on the impact of Brexit on individuals and businesses alike. In addition to the technical aspects relating to the withdrawal of the UK from the EU, there is also the future relationship between the UK and the EU, which remains to be defined.

Ever since the 2016 referendum, Brexit has become a recurrent theme at the annual UIA Congresses. Invariably, the topic gave ground to animated discussions on a wide range of legal issues. This will not be different this year. After a general overview of the process, status and outlook of Brexit, experts will discuss the impact of Brexit on the position of individuals, employees and lawyers, both within the EU27 and the UK, and the impact for businesses in terms of contracts, regulations, tax, IP law etc.

9.00 am - 10.30 am <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ■ Art Law ■ Briefing PT 	Innovation and Art The advent of disruptive technologies such as AI, neural networks, blockchain, smart contracts - to name a few - is having a very strong impact on how art is created, distributed, and collected. Many artists are now creating art with the help of or by delegation to AI and neural networks: from the early experiments of Mario Klingemann with algorithms, we came more recently to the use of several types of neural networks (e.g. Convolutional Neural Networks, Generative or Creative Adversarial Networks), all raising entirely new questions about copyrightability and authorship. Not to forget other even more ambitious projects involving blockchain and smart contracts in the creation and (self)replication of artworks. Also distribution and trading of art now occur through new systems of distribution of digital works through blockchain-powered platforms that permit to create the so called "artificial scarcity" of the digital content, or with platforms that even involve innovative ways of redistributing the proceeds of each subsequent sales of a digital work among the artist, the collector and the digital platform. We can then mention cryptocurrencies based on art and the first experiments in "tokenization" of artworks through the blockchain, to make them (fractionally) accessible to a larger number of collectors. Finally, we have to mention the uses of new technologies to certify or assess the authenticity of artworks, to find looted art, to guess what works can be of interest to a collector, or to research and manage large collections. Now, our panelists will share their experiences in these various fields, shedding light on this impressive amount of innovation that is disrupting the art world and market, that have remained linked to same practices for centuries.

THEME

2.00 pm - 3.30 pm ■ The Future of the Lawyer ■ Briefing FR	The Transversality of Human Rights in the Practice of the Legal Profession Both the continental and common law legal systems are undergoing fundamental transformations that compromise their sensibility, which is a key element of their substantive legitimacy. The disproportionate proliferation of norms in continental systems compromises the systemic coherence of the "legal order" as a structural framework of logical rules, underpinned by stable and general categories. On the other hand, the common law legal system has evolved towards the codification, a process that alters the meaning of constitutional conventions, as ad hoc solutions, as well as the role of the courts. Human rights, on the contrary, are increasingly seen as a normative system founded on interpretation and an overarching hermeneutical criterion. The legal tests for equality, non-discrimination, minimum content, limits, or conflict, constitute daily interpretive parameters for jurists. Each and every defence is articulated by weighing the rights of "action" and the rights of "resistance" in a concrete legal situation. The sensibility of a specific legal position is increasingly constructed via the hermeneutics of subjective human rights and draws less from the rationality of the system.
4.00 pm - 5.30 pm ■ Food Law ■ Briefing FR	Protection of Industrial Property Rights in the Agri-Food Sector The production and marketing of quality agro-food products has developed enormously in recent years for many reasons, which include a greater attention by consumers to the quality of food for both health and emotional purposes, deriving from a conscious choice of products, also based on their origin. The producers' goal is to differentiate their products, make them recognisable, as quality products, also through investments on brands and the defence of the system of designations of origin. But not only; the goal for producers is also to defend their industrial secrets (which include particular recipes or their know-how), anti their industrial patents, which concern, for example, genetically modified vegetable varieties. In turn, consumers demand guarantees on the origin of the products and on their quality. The working session aims at examining and effectively managing the problems concerning the protection of industrial property rights by clients who produce and / or market quality products, but also to examine what tools are available to the consumer for not be misled.
Immigration and Nationality Law ■ Briefing DE	Is it Necessary to Restrict Free Movement? While attention is focused on the migration crisis, political structures which allow the free movement of people and free trade are being put in place in all major regions of the world. Indeed, the EU has created the Schengen Area, North America - NAFTA, and South America - MERCOSUR. The opening of borders thus leads to an increase in international mobility and has made it possible to remedy the need for labour in certain States. According to a recent study by the audit firm PwC, international professional transfers have already recorded a record 25% growth over the past ten years. However, this context of market opening and labour mobility is not without risks: countries with high labour costs may see their productions compete with identical products that are cheaper because they are manufactured at lower costs. This situation has created many relocations, sometimes threatening employment in countries with high labour costs. In the United States, which has traditionally been a model of liberalism, President Donald Trump constantly castigates American companies that decide to relocate their activities, and even threatens them with sanctions. On the other side of the Atlantic, the British people voted in favour of Brexit, particularly because of the restrictions on foreign labour that will result from Britain leaving the EU. In this context, the objective of our session will be in particular to discuss the impact of the free movement of persons on the economic development of countries, but also the risks of wage and social under-pricing inherent to such freedom
Young Lawyers ■ Briefing UK	Challenges for Solo Practitioners and Medium Law Firms i. Retainer agreements: client's right to fire a lawyer Vs lawyer's right to dismiss the client ii. Data security and reputational risks: issues which can bring down a firm iii. Well-being: strategies for coping with the competing demands which are placed on young lawyers today
Law of Robotics ■ Briefing PT	Human-machine cohabitation, whether in the digital world or rooted in the physical world, raises similar issues regardless of the country. Fundamentally, it is the place of the individual in social interactions and decision-making processes that appears to constitute the most daunting challenge. In the fields of medicine, justice, logistics and mobility, the autonomy of robots and the emergence of predictive systems have caused a paradigm shift in social rules. Retaining control, ensuring that fundamental rights take precedence and respecting individual freedom are some of the challenges that technological progress now obliges us to address. In the field of artistic production and from such a symbolic standpoint, the status of machines that are currently autonomous (and in the future "intelligent") has become a fundamental issue that no legal system seems to be able to avoid. Changes in legislation, on an international scale, point to the fact that the definition of a subject of law is becoming more flexible, which paves the way for examining the place of machines in the hierarchy of legal existence.

This year could be deemed an important one for human rights. Whether we consider the worldwide student protests, the address of the young Greta Thunberg to politicians or the UK Supreme Court's decision in Vendata Resources plc v Lungowe there is no doubt that human rights have taken centre stage in mainstream discourse. Much of the discussion is focused on how states and corporations are failing to honour their human rights and environmental law obligations. For activists this is a positive step forward but what is the impact on corporations and governments?

A range of international treaties make provision for the protection of specified human and environmental rights. These have largely been negotiated under the auspices of the United Nations or at regional level. Despite the existence of international agreements, problems arise in the context of national implementation. Evolving case law has seen the recognition of rights such as access to food, water, land and clean air. Activists and lawyers continue to find novel ways to ensure greater compliance by States and corporations. However, continued litigation suggests an accountability vacuum. How can governments and corporations work towards developing better systems for compliance and avoid often complex and costly litigation? What are the risks if they do not? How can victims of human rights and environmental law violations overcome the accountability vacuum?

Doing Business in the 21st Century: Litigation of Intellectual Property and Competition Law Claims

The world in the 21st century is a smaller place, but an ever more complex one for doing business as innovative new business models challenge the established order. Modern business tactics are underpinned by a complex network of competing rights and obligations, from intellectual property rights to contractual rights, torts and regulatory laws. As competition becomes tougher, so businesses attempt to find ways of strengthening their brands and protecting their designs, not always by legitimate means. Securing and enforcing intellectual property rights and negotiating and enforcing selective distribution networks and other restrictive contracts designed to protect brand identity and integrity and market share become a key focus as businesses seek to maintain their exclusivity.

They often face heavy cross-border litigation involving multi-jurisdictional rights and forum disputes and, at the same time, the problem of counterfeiting and piracy. Then there are the companies whose business is to enforce but not to exploit intellectual property rights, the "patent trolls", which pose a real threat to legitimate business which advances our global society.

Lawyers from the Intellectual Property, Litigation and Competition Law Commissions will be joining forces to tackle some of the issues and provide some solutions to the daily problems businesses face in bringing their products and services to market in the modern business world.

Briefing FR

Data protection is now a social issue, the stakes and challenges of which are being addressed well beyond the boundaries of the legal sphere. In Europe, the subject has become political and a top priority for EU law, as the protection of European citizens' and residents' personal data has given rise to a sophisticated regulatory ecosystem, the goal of which is to become a benchmark for data protection. A certain number of countries have thus decided, jointly with or following in the footsteps of the European Union, to reinforce their protection systems by automatically placing businesses under onerous technical and organisational obligations. In other regions, data is first and foremost seen as an asset to be leveraged and a resource that is needed for refining machine learning algorithms, which are well known for being greedy when it comes to data consumption. Nevertheless, it is still necessary to create conditions in which these various conceptions can cohabit in compliance with regulatory systems that are not harmonised with each other. Thus, over and above local and domestic specificities, there are still a certain number of cross-cutting questions, e.g. the place of consent, the territorial applicability of Binding Corporate Rules, and how to manage cross-border data flows. Moreover, the regulatory authorities and courts have now handed down their first decisions, which make it possible to quantify the actual risk more accurately and make compliance policies more specific.

Tax Law

Briefing DE

The Digital World Goes Tax

The digitalisation changes the world and it changes the tax world. In the digital world it is easy for multinationals to reduce their respective tax burden beyond any acceptable rate. Any attempt to go for special companies or special business situations seems to fail. The introduction of special rules for internet companies seems to be difficult or impossible as the differentiation between the "old" world and the "new" world disappears. So new rules for worldwide international taxation might become necessary. The session will explain the existing basic concept of international taxation of businesses, the currently discussed ideas and the political and economical background of the respective ideas.

Public Procurement Litigation: the State of the Art

Public and utilities procurement is an area of expertise very relevant for all countries in the world. Anytime states, regions, municipalities and other public entities need to acquire services or goods or to contract civil works or else to award concession agreements, public and utilities legal provisions have to be complied with. As the competition in this field is highly intense, litigation is quite common.

UIA-ABA ■ Briefing UK	Private Lawyers, Public Interest and Corporate Social Responsibility With the advent of the United Nations Guiding Principles for Business in 2014, corporate social responsibility has begun moving from soft law to hard law, and remains an important aspect of the private lawyers' ethical obligations in properly advising clients on human rights issues, particularly regarding the supply chain. This program will be divided into two parts. The first part will focus on contract law issues, including those involving supply chain contracts. The panel will discuss best practices, including resources available to private practitioners, and provide an overview of current statutory regimes that impose criminal and/or disclosure and reporting requirements. The second part will explore the past five years since the adoption of the UNGP and how countries are beginning to legislate disclosure and more substantive requirements to compel private companies to enforce human rights as part of corporate social responsibility. This part will explore three areas: defining and distinguishing corporate social responsibility, defining the lawyer's professional responsibility and ethical obligations, and how corporate social responsibility relates to the increasing concern about narrowing the justice gap.

OPENING CEREMONY / 6.00 PM - 7.30 PM WELCOME COCKTAIL / 7.30 PM - 9.30 PM WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 6 / PHILHARMONIE

Keynote speech by Xavier Bettel, Prime Minister of the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg.

The bold curves of the Philharmonie create an exceptional setting for the Opening Ceremony of the Congress. The architect Christian de Portzamparc, recipient of the Pritzker Prize, won the international architectural competition for the new concert hall in 1997 with a striking design: 823 slender white pillars. The ceremony will take place in the Grand Auditorium which, with its combination of stage, stalls, organ, and eight lateral box towers, is reminiscent of a meeting square surrounded by buildings.

In the spirit of the UIA tradition, several key officials will welcome the participants and wish them successful sessions. During the Opening Ceremony, the UIA / Lexisnexis Rule of Law Award will be presented to an individual or an organisation that actively contributes to the advancement of the rule of law within the legal community.

The ceremony will be followed by a welcome cocktail, where attendees will be able to socialise with friends and colleagues.

INFORMAL RECEPTION THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 7 / 8.00 PM ROCKHAL

The informal evening will take place at the Rockhal, a concert hall located on a former industrial site in Belval, across from the ruins of the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg's last two blast furnaces. The cocktail reception has many exciting surprises in store!

9.30 am / Departure from Luxembourg.

10.15 am / Arrival in Schengen. You will see the "Schengen Agreement" Monument, the Columns of Nations symbolising the 26 countries that form the Schengen Area, a segment of the Berlin Wall, the Castle of Schengen (outside). You will then visit the European Museum.

With the exceptional participation of Robert Goebbels, former Minister, who signed the Schengen Agreement on behalf of Luxembourg on June 14, 1985

11.45 am / Transfer to the Malbrouck Castle.

12.00 pm / You will visit the Malbrouck Castle and the Hergé exhibition.

The number of participants is limited; therefore registrations will be confirmed in order of receipt.

JOGGING AND FOOTBALL GAME

Free sport activities have been planned to make the most of your stay in Luxembourg:

Accommodation

The hotels selected by the UIA are located in three areas:

- the Kirchberg plateau, which is home to the European institutions, the European Convention Center Luxembourg (ECCL), the Philharmonie and the Mudam;
- the Luxembourg city centre, which is a Unesco World Heritage Site;
- the Dommeldange district, which is located in the northeast of the city, in a green environment.

Due to high demand, hotels are filling up very quickly in Luxembourg. Therefore, we recommend that you proceed with your hotel reservation as quickly as possible. Due to the limited number of rooms and the fact that preferential rates cannot be guaranteed for more than the number of rooms reserved by the UIA, we recommend that you make your reservations as early as possible with our partner agency, Destination Plus. To book and pay online go to www.destinationplus-uia.com. A minimum of two consecutive nights is requested for each hotel reservation.

Shuttles between the congress hotels and the ECCL will be available from November 6 to 9. The timetables will be included in the final programme.

We are offering reduced rates that have been specifically negotiated for the UIA Congress. Most of the hotels offer a special reduced rate on weekend nights (November 8 and 9). You will find details of the rates in the registration form. Breakfast is included in the room price of all the suggested hotels.

For details on the location of the hotels, please refer to page 55.

Tourist Activities

It is preferable to reserve the tourist activities at the same time as you reserve your accommodation, by sending the registration form to Destination Plus or by reserving at www.destinationplus-ua.com.

Some tours have a limited number of places and reservations will be taken on a first-come, first-served basis. We therefore recommend reserving places for spouses/guests in advance. You will still have the possibility of registering with Destination Plus at the ECCL, subject to availability. Payments must be made in euros.

The definitive departure times for the tourist activities will be printed in the brochure and displayed in the Destination Plus reception office, as well as in all the Congress hotels.

A minimum number of 15 participants is required for each activity, without which the activity may be postponed or cancelled (in this case a refund will be offered). Destination Plus will not offer a refund for any no-shows on the day of the activity (see cancellation conditions, page 52).

All the activities offered below are exclusively reserved for UIA Congress attendees. The official language for all the activities is English. Depending on the number of participants and the languages spoken, sub-groups may be formed.
